In 25 Years . . .

In twenty-five years? Of course, the Pike school system itself has been here since 1892; it was only during 25 years that the students and faculty began the recording of their story in a book . . . a yearbook. Twenty-five years later we find that much progress has been made. The system has expanded from one building to four; the high school faculty has increased to 44.

Historians, should they ever look upon the years at Pike, may find only pictures of classes in caps and gowns for several years, but for the last twenty-five years we've given them an advantage. You see, the purpose of a yearbook is two-fold. The first idea is a record-book; the pictures of clubs, plays and classes are listed. The second idea is more meaningful. To many it is a history book. It is fine to know who did what, but it is more interesting to know how they felt while they were participating in these activities. This feeling is captured in expressions—not formal poses.

. . . We've Become a Symbol . . .

We've become a symbol. To exemplify this fragment of our theme the staff decided to give the students and faculty a memento—a seal or symbol. Throughout the years many attempts have been made to culminate Pike life into a picture, but it was only 1967 which was successful. Staff members and students supplied ideas, the Student Council eliminated, and the student body voted on the seal seen throughout this book. In the future the symbol of Pike will be displayed on many places—notebooks, cars, and in the school lobby.

... of Ourselves

How can we say "We've become a symbol of ourselves" . . . that doesn't seem to make much sense. In English we find that symbols are in novels, and they are usually objects which convey another meaning of deeper, more ironic levels. How then can we, the pupils in Pike High School, say we are symbols?

The students are merely young adults who go to school to learn; this is the thought held by many people. But, we are the class of 1967, that makes us different from the ones of 1892 and even 1966. After all, we are learning new things because there are new things which have to be studied. Therefore we

In Their Honor . . .

It's considered old-fashioned to include a dedication in a yearbook. But, this book contains some of the "old" in our 25 year celebration. Therefore, the staff of the 1967 Pike's Peak dedicates this book to the members of the faculty who have been teaching for 25 years. Among the 25 year teachers are: Everitt Daniels, Robert Faris, Weldon Morgan, Miss Esther Myers, Mrs. Elloree Northcott, and Clifford Reese. Others are Herschel Baker, Max Shaw, Cora Edwards, Mrs. Opal Taylor, Mrs. Marjorie Morgan, Mrs. Jeanette Bush, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell, Miss Mary Gwinn, Mrs. Ethel Weaver, and Harold Willen.

STUDENT LIFE

Pike expanded the athletic facilities during the summer.

For some, the summer means continued hitting the books.

Once again the Pike band placed first on Farmers Day at the State Fair.

Summertime—and the Living Is Easy

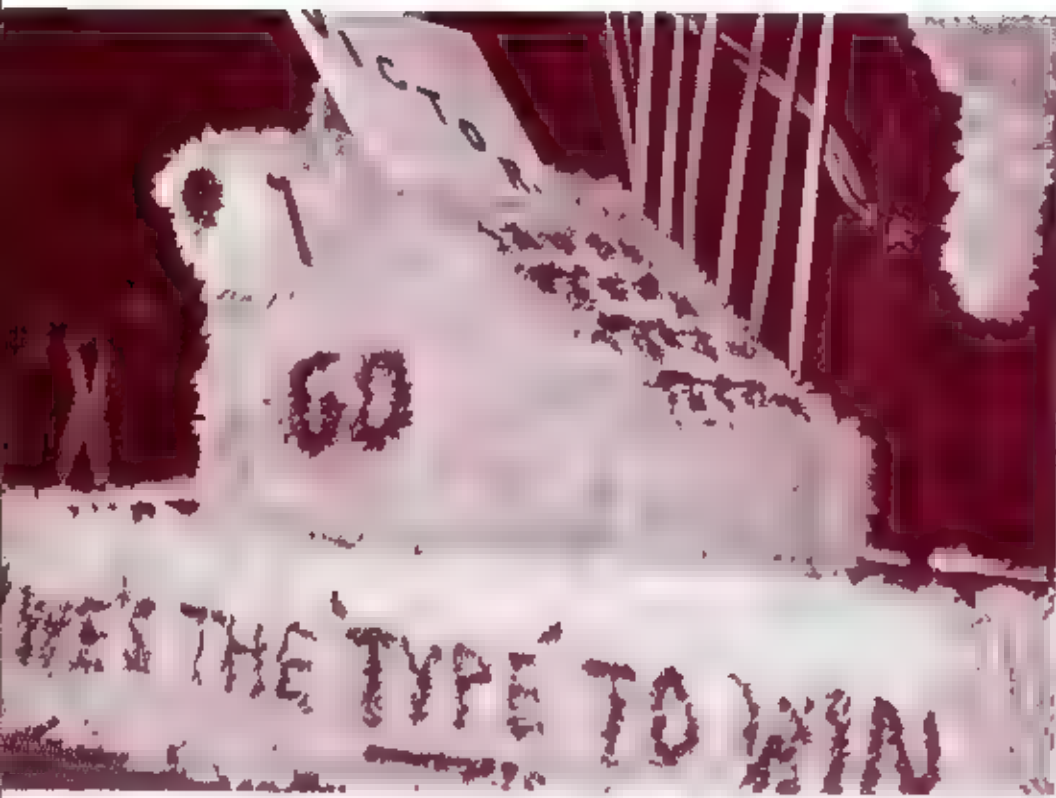

Summer vacations seem as though they'll never get here when it's April or May. The unfortunate who find they weren't able to "luck-out" soon find themselves back at the books again. As they look out the window and dream of swimming, sleeping late, or making money at a summer job; others voluntarily give up treasured time for evening band practice. The band always opens the school year unofficially at the State Fair performing on Farmers Day and Band Day.

The physical plant of Pike doesn't rest during the summer. The stadium, complete with press box, was started this summer and completed in early fall.

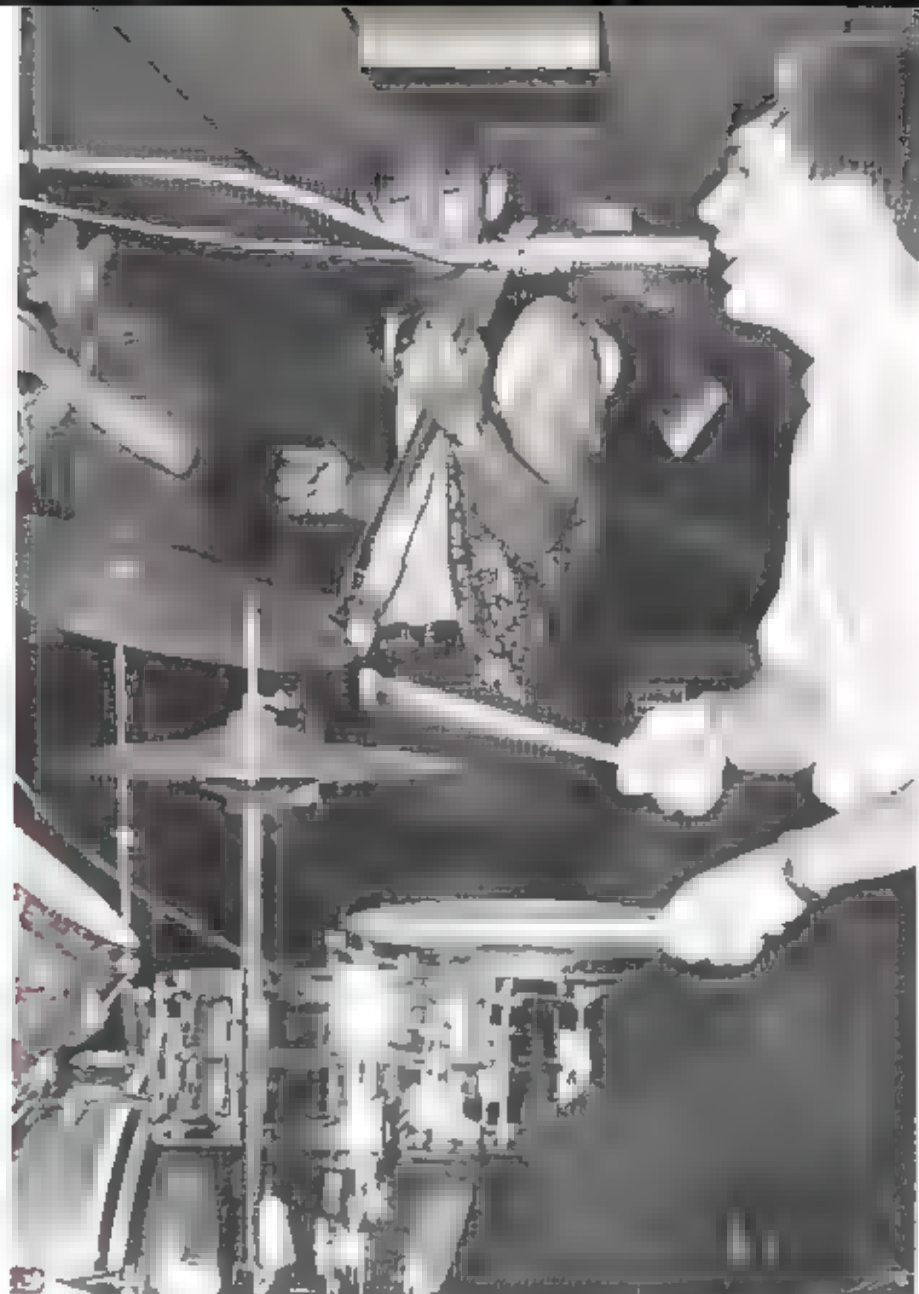

But the nicest part of the summer is being able to take trips and relax with one's friends—to be able to have the gang over for cokes without feeling guilty about homework.

Things go better with coke after coke after coke—or Pepsi.

A spirited attitude led the Devils into a 3-0 victory over the Beech Grove Hornets. Carrying the ball is senior halfback Brent White.

Parade Prep Proves Successful

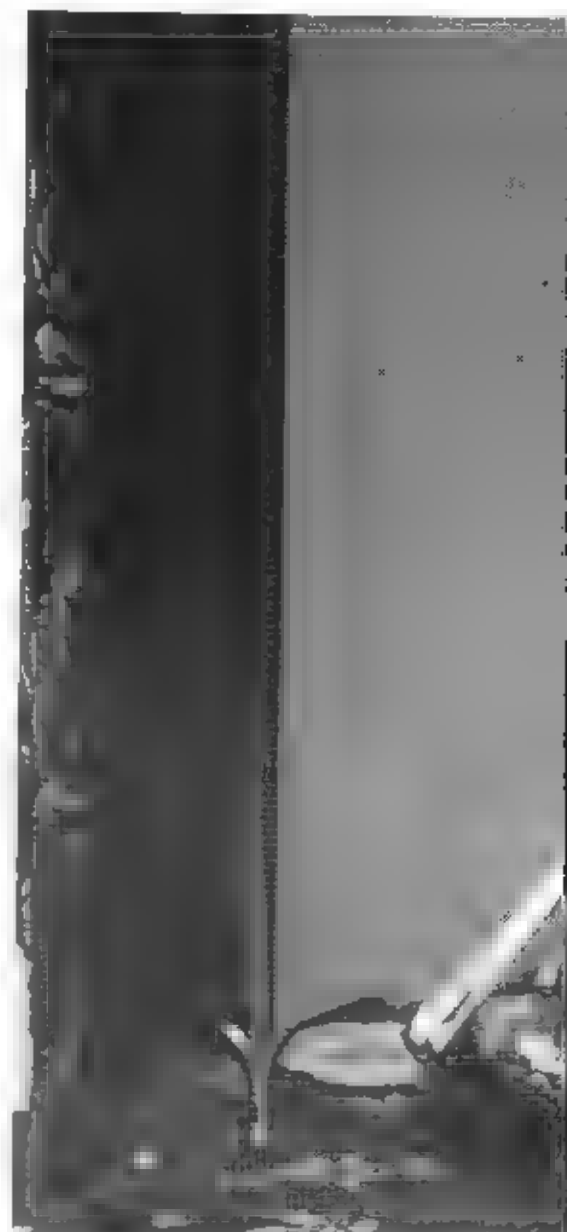

After a week's chaotic preparation by all the classes and clubs, the 1966 Homecoming finally got underway. The weekend's events included the homecoming football game, parade, homecoming dance and the crowning of the queen and Mr. Football. All the classes entered floats and many of the clubs entered either floats or cars. The choir and sophomore class tied for first place in the float competition.

Sue Marling was crowned the 1966 Homecoming Queen and her court was formed by Janet Browning, Sharon Lemke and Linda Katzenberger, seniors; Jackie Ribley, junior; Cindy Snyder, sophomore; and Sally Oliverio, freshman.

The Homecoming dance was sponsored by the FBLA and the CLARENCE BROWN MEMORIAL STRING BAND provided the entertainment. Mike Snyder was crowned Mr. Football by Peggy Yohler, captain of the cheerleading squad.

Renato Taiana, 1967 American
Foreign Services Pupil

Renato Taiana, 1967 AFS student, from Como, Italy, quickly settled into the routine of school life at Pike. He lived with the W. L. Pottenger family and studied with Larry. Renny, like most seniors found I.R. required hours of study and was intrigued by science subjects.

He showed his athletic ability while participating on the swimming team this year. When the pressures of school were on, Renny sometimes relaxed by cooking or by listening to music on the radio—a good common interest shared with Larry who has long been the school's chief drum enthusiast.

Of course, thoughts often wandered back to Italy and his parents and four older brothers and sisters. As many other students tried to decide their futures and vocational choices, Renny hoped to enter his father's business.

Perhaps the highest compliment Pike can pay Renny is that he so quickly and smoothly fit into the school scheme of affairs that one often forgot he hadn't been a life-time native of the community.

Band Spectacular and Talent Show Feature Song and Dance Routines

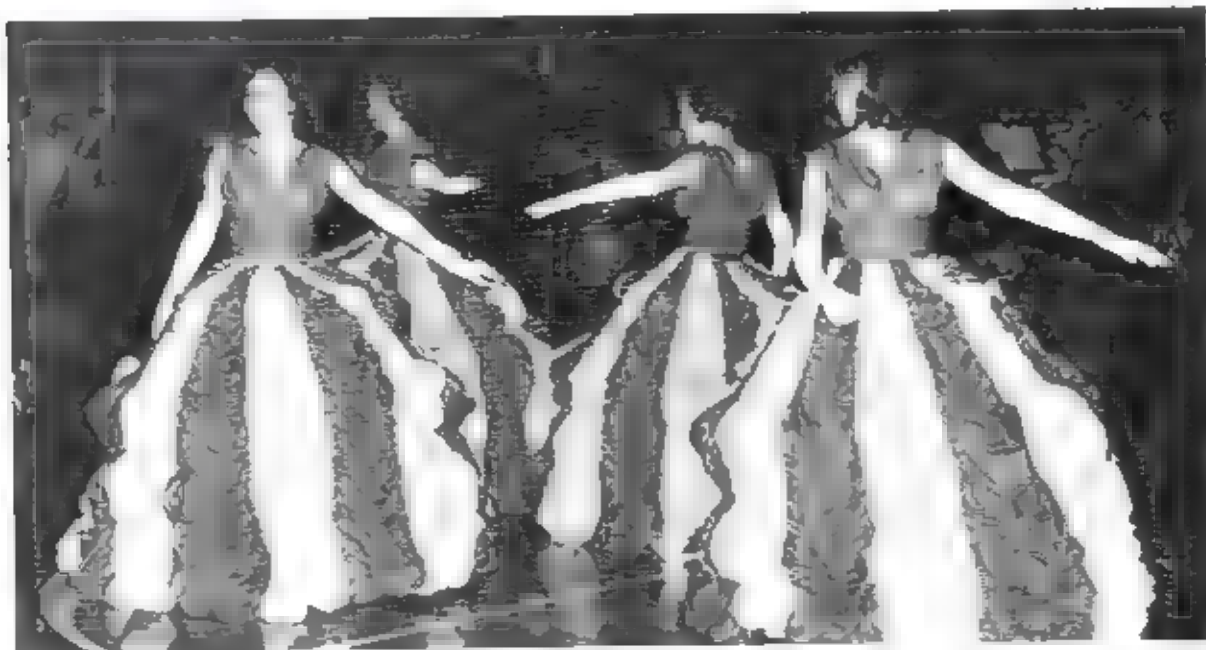

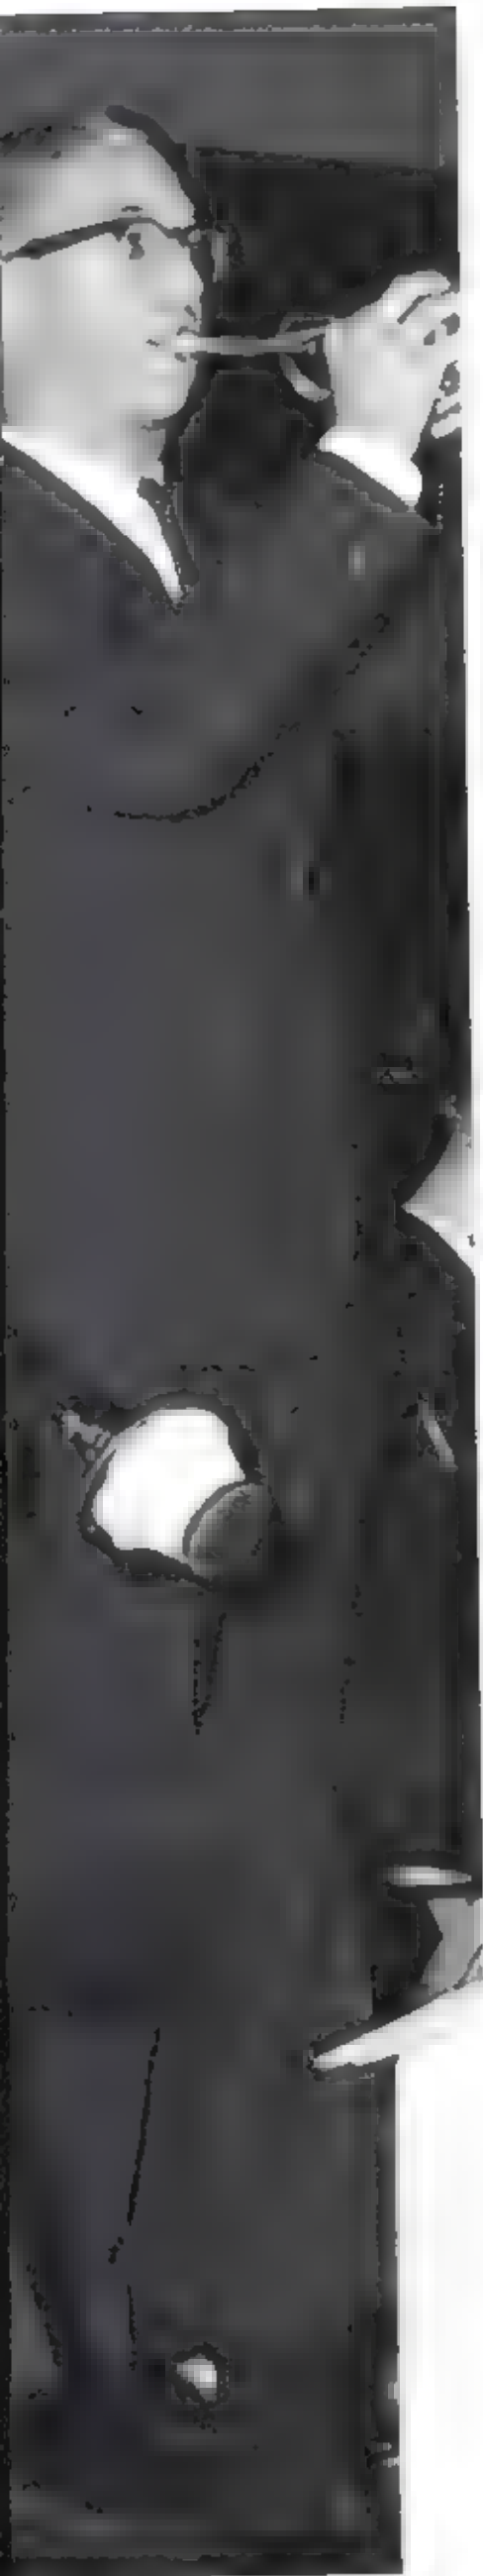

The Band Spectacular and Talent Show allowed for production numbers by groups and the display of individual talent. Larry Pottenger was featured during the Spectacular on a drum solo as were J. K. Stevens on trumpet and Harold Bannister on trombone. Gypsies, modern dance with a jazz beat and hoop-skirted waltzers were among the night's highlights.

The Talent Show permitted Vicki Barth to perform an acrobatic skit. Toshiko Suzuki sang while dressed in her native Japanese costume. Bill Heffleman gave a piano solo; Toni Good and Cindy Diller did a comedy sketch. Patty Alexander played her accordion while other groups added the popular folk music flavor as well.

The majorettes were to add routines in both shows. Even Herb Alpert's Tijuana Brass sounds were heard. For the Spectacular disk jockey, Bob Morrison, a Pike patron, served as master of ceremonies.

A real, live goat added an element of unpredictability to Tea-house of the August Moon.

Animals and Weather Add to Plays

Mr. Lee Horn, new dramatics coach, revitalized the productions of Pike. The Teahouse of the August Moon—complete with army jeep and goat—started the fall season. The students worked diligently constructing Japanese bridges, unique props and scene dividers. Such minute details as the color of a hanging mobile were endlessly debated. Mr. Horn also held sessions instructing the pupils on various techniques of acting so that they might give a more polished and professional performance.

During the spring semester the music department combined with Mr. Horn to stage 110 in the Shade. The musical displayed the talents of Ginger Soper, Dennis Daupert, Mike Jones, and John Patten. The band also made the Broadway play a local success—playing numbers which were a major departure from their regular types of numbers.

Mr. Horn hopes later to offer selections similar to readings from Carl Sandburg. These opportunities have allowed the student body to pool its talents to provide polished productions rather than straining a particular class level to find enough people to staff one play.

Convo's, Fads, and Dances Provide an Informal Index of Year

During the year Pike has sponsored many entertaining and informative convocations. The U.S. Navy Choir presented a rousing program. Al Unser and Art Pollard came to show a movie on the 1966 500 Mile Race and talk on auto safety. Tom Grimm showed slides of his world travels. Other shows included a one-man band and a spacemobile in the science convo.

The dances featured local musical talent again this year. Perhaps through negative example a positive recommendation was made that basic minimum standards of band attire and student behavior be observed. The Student Council worked diligently to set up these regulations.

Fads were not as pronounced this year as in the past—tie weejuns, collar pins, wide belts—the mod look. Faculty members were somewhat more resigned to difficulty over hair lengths and bangs—on boys as well as girls

Posing with Craig Sears' 1935 Chevy and anxiously awaiting the Prom were King and Queen candidates: Terri Ribley, Brent White, Sue Marling, Ron Young, Charlie Patten, Sharla Chappel, Craig Sears, Sue Palmer, Janet Browning, and Mike Guest.

'A Night Under Mediterranean Skies'

Low lights and soft music added a romantic atmosphere for long gowned, bejeweled beauties and their dates at the 1967 Prom. Providing music for the event held on May 6, at the Indianapolis Athletic Club, was the Phil Marshall Orchestra.

Highlighting the dance was the coronation of Sue Palmer and Craig Sears as King and Queen of the occasion.

Despite the late hour and the "pouring" rain, seniors headed for the bowling alley and the traditional post-prom party. Besides bowling, pool and eating were the most popular amusements. Post-post prom breakfasts were held by several individuals making the affair an all-night ordeal.

Rolling down or up hills and slopping through the mud were just some of the pastimes enjoyed by seniors and juniors the following Sunday at Turkey Run, McCormick's Creek and other state parks.

As was predicted there was a very long absentee list the following Monday.

Community and Department Awards Given Deserving Pupils

Mr. White was awarded a plaque by Student Council president, Ned Redenbarger, for eighteen years service to the system.

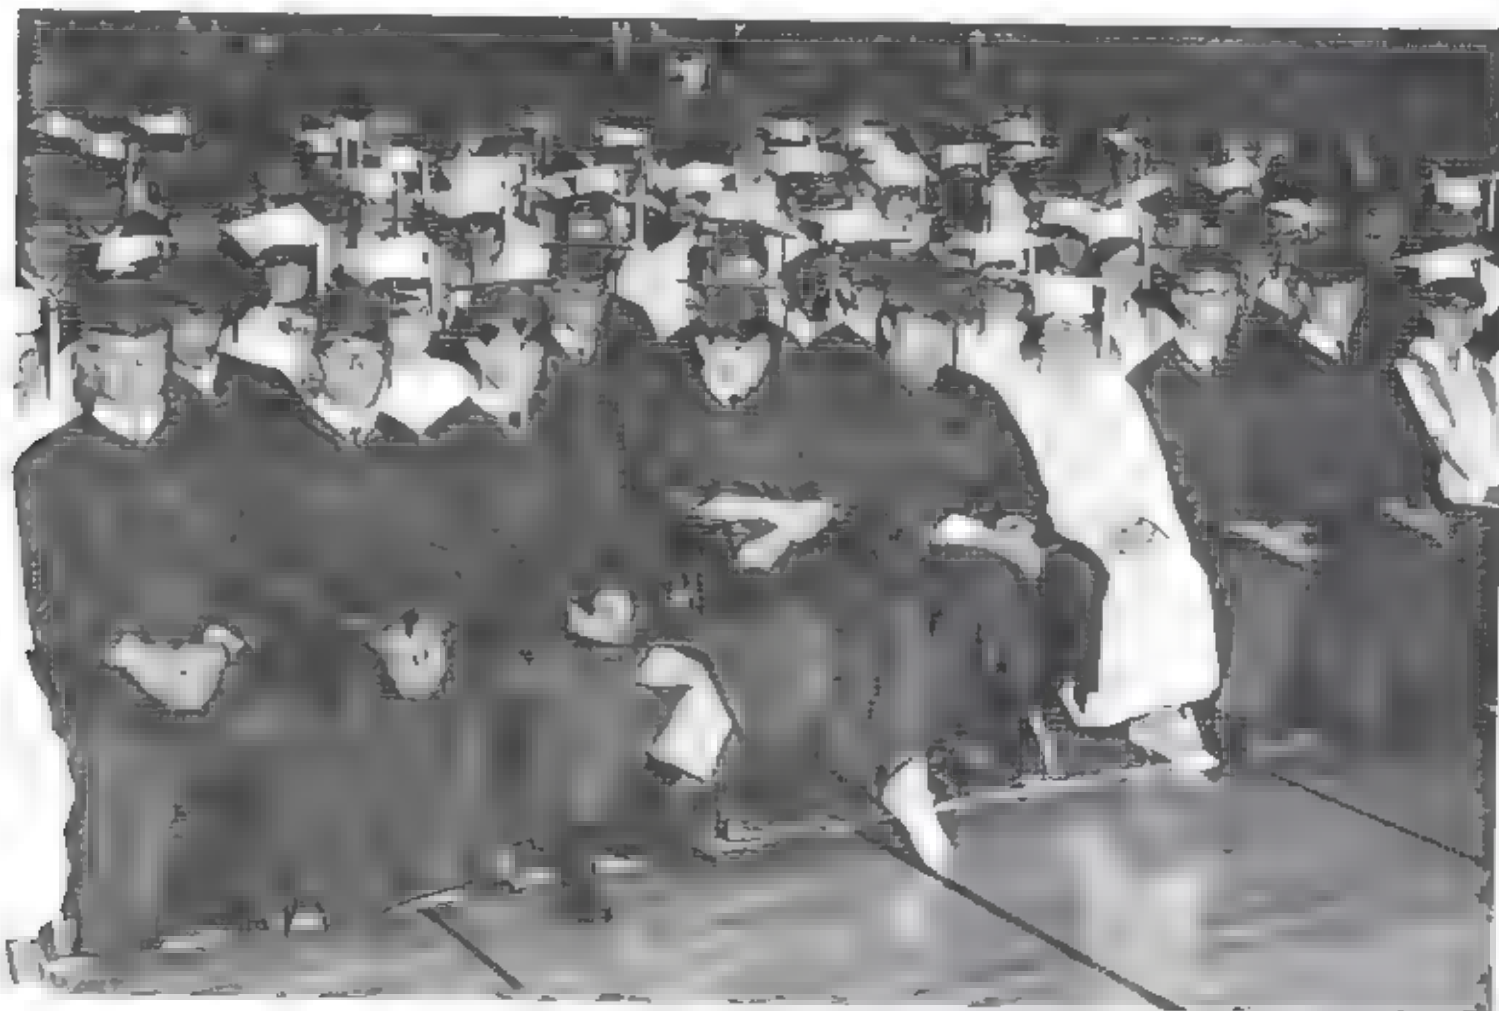

The Awards Day program was held on May 26. The athletic department presented a new trophy for free throw record in basketball to Jeff Wagley. While the athletic award for scholarship went to Greg Hadley; the sportsmanship award went to Wagley.

Beth Soper and Sue Palmer were honored as valedictorian and salutatorian respectively of the class of 1967. The Alton Starkey Award for community service went to J. K. Stevens, and Debbie Hightshue. Dennis Daupert received a National Merit Scholarship; Ned Redenbarger, Danforth Foundation Award, Debbie Hightshue, P T S A scholarship; Barbara Dean and Marilyn Brown, nursing scholarships, Janet Baker and Linda Katzenberger, Tri-Hi Y Scholarships.

Students were informed of their participation in the Indianapolis science seminar—David Campbell, Gerald Taylor, Gary Wright, and Nancy Edberg. Junior Greg Hadley was again named as the winner of the math and science award.

Mr. White was honored by the Student Council for his eighteen years of service commemorating the event while receiving a standing ovation from the faculty and student body.

Baccalaureate and Commencement Signified the End of 1966-7

The final official activities for the 1967 class were baccalaureate and commencement services on May 28 and 29. Entering to the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," the seniors and their proud families listened to the baccalaureate address, "Marks of Maturity," which was given by Rev. John Spangler.

During the commencement activities another class father took part; Dr. James Doty, President of Baker University, gave the invocation. Speeches were given by valedictorian Beth Soper and salutatorian Sue Palmer. And then the long awaited moment, the culmination of four years—Mr. A. T. Lange, president of the school board, presented the diplomas to graduating seniors.

Parents crowded around to get pictures of their children being handed the diploma, changing the position of the tassel of their cap, or simply standing proudly in the symbolic cap and gown. After commencement festivities the seniors went on to celebrate at the grad dance.

M.S.D. Growth Adds Concern for Board

HERSCEL BAKER, Assistant Superintendent. DONN MARTIN, Township Bookkeeper. GENE PRUITT, Director of Curriculum. MAX SHAW, Superintendent

School Board: Max Shaw, Herbert Netter, Robert Pritchard, William Maines, A. T. Lange, Mrs. Rebekah Brown.

Superintendent of M.S.D. of Pike Township, Max Shaw, worked throughout the year with the school board on the task of determining future building needs which will provide for increased school population expectations. One of the visible materializations of the facilities' expansion may be seen in the new football stadium with press box.

The school board also sought to have more direct contact with the faculty. Once a semester the board would tour each building and have informal meetings with the teachers after school. The board worked with the problems of budget, policy, and procedure which are inherent in such a position.

Donn Martin, township bookkeeper, helped create and facilitate smooth handling of the new credit union established for the personnel. Mr. Baker struggles increased pressures caused by expanding buildings. Gene Pruitt, new director of curriculum, attempted to create a liaison among the different levels of various subject matter areas.

Administrators Guide School Activities

Mr. Edwin R. White, Pike High School principal, supervised and coordinated all of the complex problems created by an expanding curriculum, faculty, building, and community. In addition to maintaining the day-to-day workings of the physical building itself, he often was called upon to attend North Central Accrediting Association visitations and meetings.

Mr. Dante Schiavone, vice-principal, was in charge of attendance for the school. He also scheduled classes for the year and helped facilitate the switch to IBM cards which was one of the major changes of the school year.

Director of Audio-Visual Services, Everitt Daniels, has increased the offerings of Pike Township by unifying the movies, records, filmstrips. Under his direction educational tv has been introduced in the curriculum, last year the English department lectured on a Victorian novel while social studies currently has enacted the Civil War.

DANTE SCHIAVONE: Assistant Principal. EDWIN R. WHITE: Principal.

Mr. White, principal of the building, smiles from behind his busy, but ordered desk.

Guidance Assists Pupils in Decisions

Mrs. Orth checks with Lynn Smith to make certain all graduation requirements have been met

The Guidance Department with additional counseling time was able to substantially increase its program of student assistance. Mrs. Peggy Orth, girls counselor, was joined this year by two newcomers to Pike: Mr. Carter Byfield, boys counselor, and Mr. Charles Amick, the director of the department. The many students stopping in the offices for educational, vocational, and personal assistance in addition to the regular counseling sessions pointed out the acceptance of the trio by the student body.

Along with the regular counseling and testing services: two auditorium series were established for upper-classmen, one on college investigation and the other on vocational training opportunities. Several visiting college, trade school, business and industrial representatives were made available throughout the year. Career Day was re-established this year, which also brought about a career reference list of township persons willing to talk with any individual about their particular careers. Informal coffee-hour conferences were also hosted for parent groups during the year to answer their many questions. Numerous college and job applications were processed by the department during the year with the assistance of Mrs. Christine Patty, part-time secretary.

CHARLES AMICK: Director of Guidance. VERNON BLACK: Director of Special Services. CARTER BYFIELD: Boys' Counselor. MRS. PEGGY ORTH: Girls' Counselor.

Office Secretaries Assist Personnel

MRS. PEARL GOOD: Secretary to the Principal. MRS. CHRISTINE PATTY: Guidance Secretary and Library Assistant

Mrs. Pearl Good, secretary to the principal, worked in several capacities. Not only did she serve as typist, co-ordinator of the office, but also she was the bookkeeper for the funds of the various school clubs and organizations.

Mrs. Rose Stockwell who replaced Mrs. Juanita Walker also worked in the office. Mrs. Stockwell became a familiar figure in her capacity as bookstore director. She also took care of the lost and found department.

When necessary, Mrs. Good and Mrs. Stockwell were assisted by Mrs. Christine Patty. Mrs. Patty served in a dual capacity as guidance office secretary and library assistant.

All of these ladies found their respective loads lightened by willing student help who worked in the office areas on a voluntary basis.

Mrs. Rose Stockwell, though new to the Pike staff, quickly found herself in charge of the school bookstore.

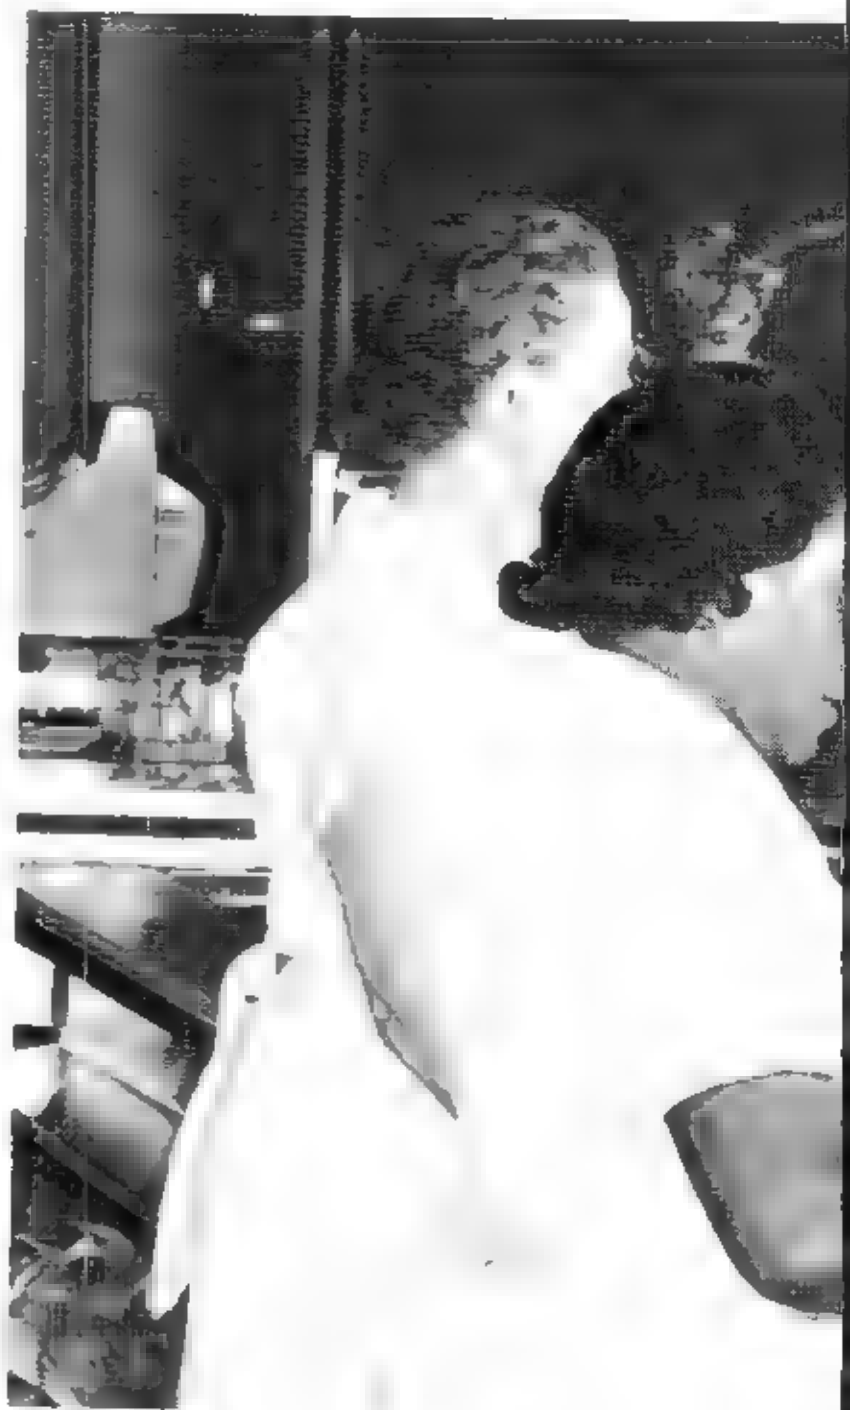

Mrs. Mary Bray makes herself indispensable to the physical education department washing towels and other swimming equipment

Mrs. Vera McClure checks over her busy schedule as director of food services

Crew Helps the School Run Smoothly

Red Wilkerson, new custodian, has quickly acclimated himself to the physical plant and staff alike. Pupils are given a varied dietary selection by the cafeteria personnel

Mr. William Bray who had endeared himself to Pike faculty and pupils died of a heart attack while working in the building early in the school year. His widow, Mrs. Mary Bray, has continued in her capacity of being in charge of the school's laundry facilities. Mr. "Red" Wilkerson took over Mr. Bray's position as head custodian.

Mrs. Hiatt, the nurse, assisted in the high school building on Tuesdays and Fridays. On days when she was stationed at the various other schools, Mrs. Brewer took care of the health services duties. Mrs. Brewer and Mrs. Eaks also assisted Mr. Wilkerson in cleaning and maintaining specific areas of the building.

Mrs. Vera McClure, director of food services, supervised the dietary selection and preparation of food offered in the cafeteria.

Harry Hagens, director of heating and cooling, also maintains the physical equipment of the school.

New Planetarium Top in the State

Highlighting the Science department year was the NASA convocation led by chairman Francis Horne. The conva sought to explain the U.S. space program.

Duane Stanley, planetarium director, displayed the planetarium for dept. heads from all over the state. These representatives sought information concerning the value of a planetarium in their own schools.

Students in advanced physics were engaged in the preparation for college physic courses. "The nature of matter" was the predominate topic of discussion in their study of nuclear physics.

Inoculating chicken eggs and dissecting fetal pigs filled the semester for zoology students. The greenhouse was the home for botany instructions.

Faculty Promotes Math Development

WARREN COOMER: Algebra, Geometry, and Senior Math. WILLIAM ENSOR: Department Head, algebra, College Algebra and General Math. JANE MERRILL: General Math and algebra. H. DUANE WILSON: Algebra, geometry, and General Math.

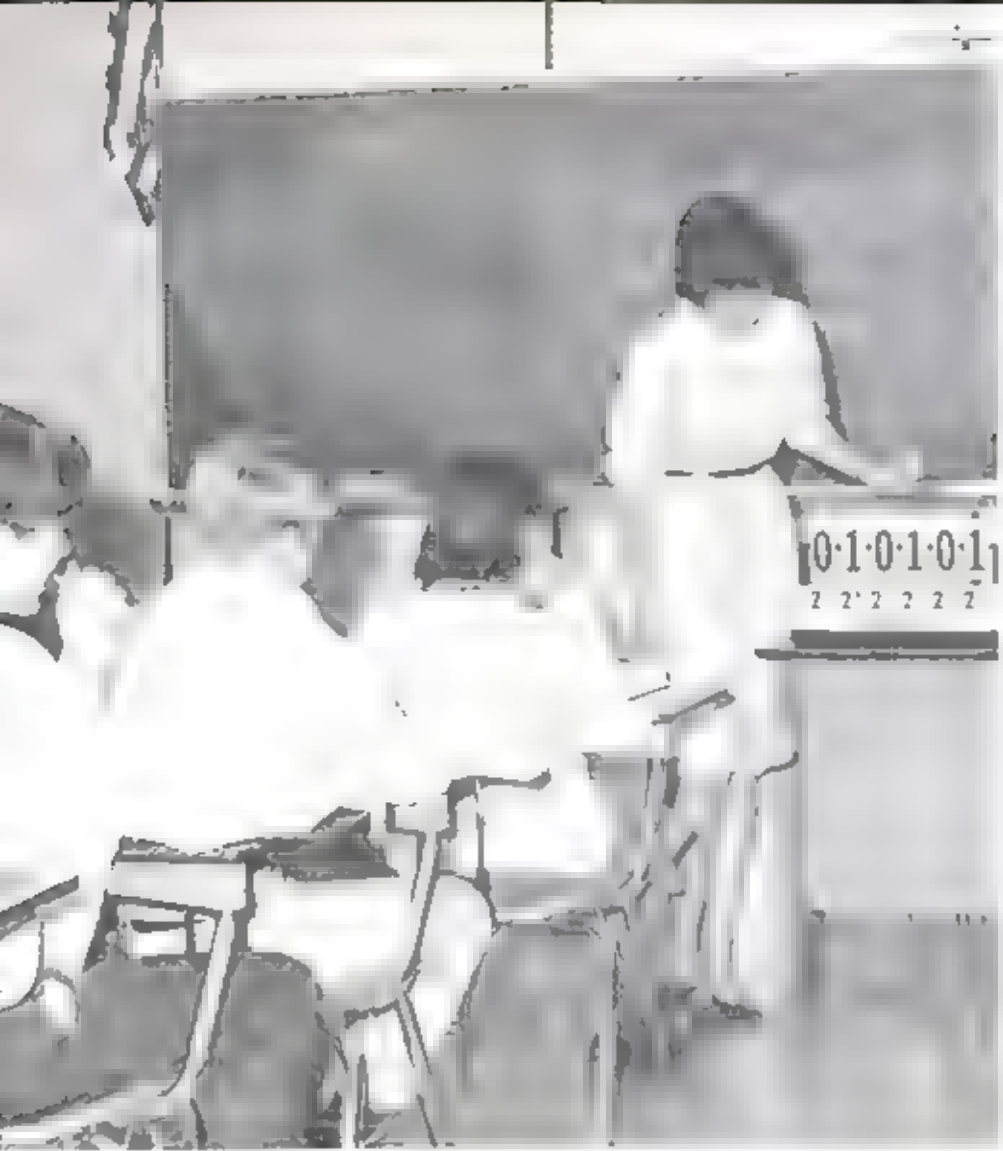

The Math Department was the scene of many changes this year. Due to vacancies two new teachers were added to the staff—William Ensor, serving as department chairman, teaching trigonometry, College algebra and algebra, and Duane Wilson teaching algebra.

Also helping in the department is Warren Coomer, teaching geometry and Senior Math. The Senior Math includes the basic principles of analytical geometry & calculus. Mr. Warren Coomer is also in charge of the Math Club. Mr. Coomer and his diligent officers sponsored the annual Christmas dance

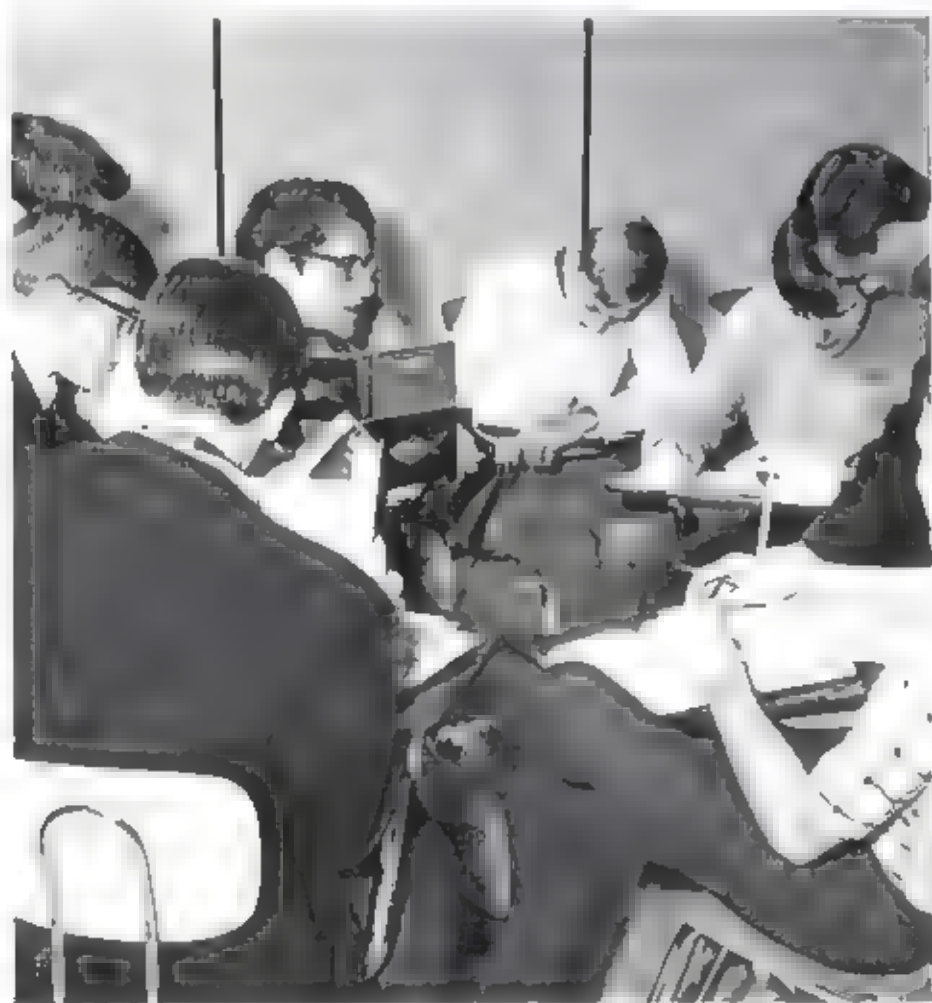

Also in the Math department, teaching General Math was Mrs. Jane Merrill. After Mrs. Merrill left, Miss Marshall assumed her duties.

Often seen at the podium instructing students in the mysteries of algebra was Warren Coomer

Students Read Their Way to Understanding

Esther Meyers, one of the faculty members to whom this book is dedicated, come to aid of many researching students as librarian

The lecturing technique of the faculty seems evident as Ron Iwema conducts an English class.

Under the direction of department head, Thomas Thornburg, emphasis in the English department was placed on composition, writing skills in paper development and proper procedure were among the many aspects stressed. Subjects for the papers were the classical and modern works read by the pupils.

In speech and dramatics, drama coach Lee Horn put emphasis on the usage of the voice as an instrument of persuasion and believability. Drama students participated in such projects as recording children's stories, complete with home-made sound effects. One group of these pupils presented a commentary on the lack of communication between the parents, students, and teachers for a local PTSA meeting.

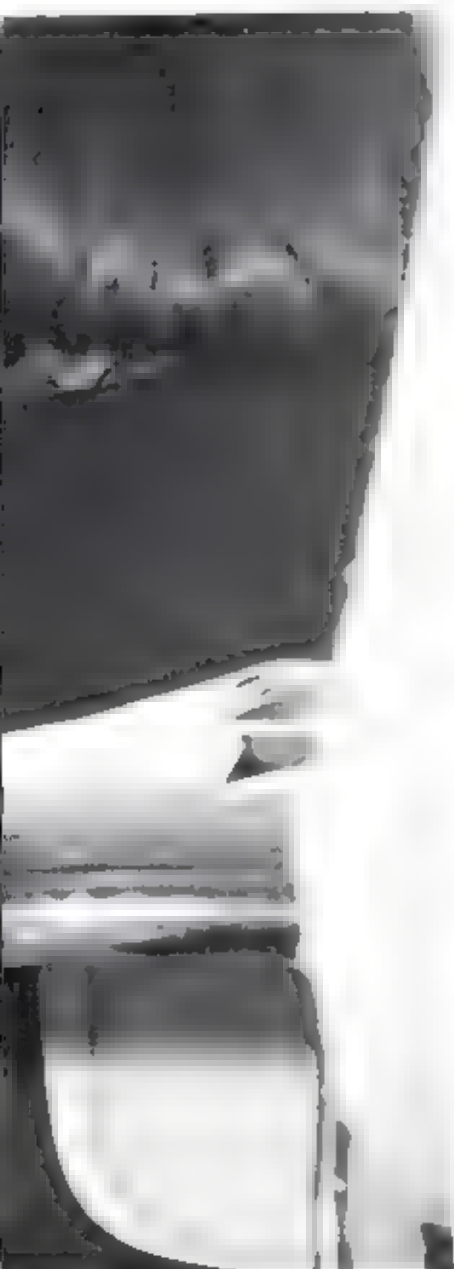

Publication of the school paper was still the major project of the journalism classes. Initiated this year was the practice of releasing the paper once a week to the student body.

Derivitives & Reading Lab aided the students in improving their comprehension & vocabulary.

ENGLISH FACULTY: MRS. ANN BOOTH: English V, VI, Yearbook Advisor; CHARLES BROOKS: English III, IV, VII, VIII and world Geography; MRS. JOANNE GUNDY: English I, II; LEE HORN: English I, II, Dramatics, Speech; RONALD IWEMA: English III, IV; THOMAS THORNBURG: DEPARTMENT HEAD, English VII, VIII; JOHN WELLS: English V, VI, VII, VIII.

Many procedures useful in a career in publications were learned in journalism classes. Marsha Lonigan makes headlines for use in the school paper—the Pike Hi-Life.

Proficiency Allows for Foreign Travel

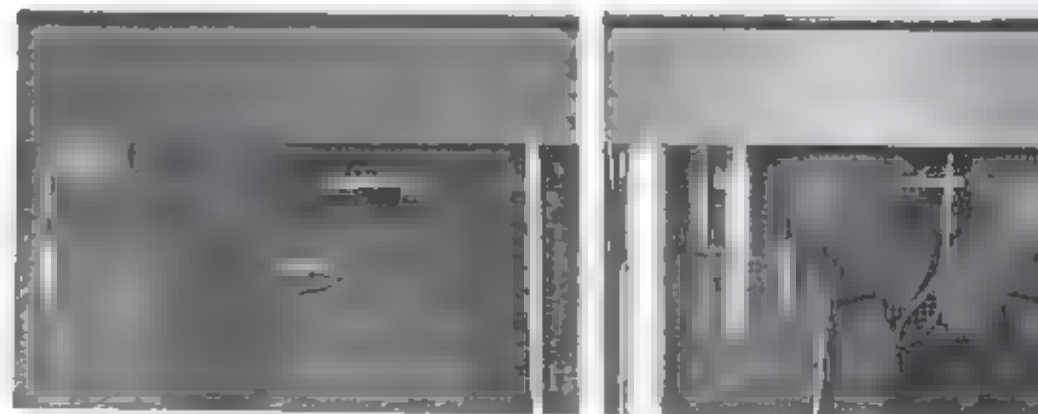

Vicki Dearholt and Nancy Hamilton prepare for their foreign trips this summer.

An opportunity to increase one's fluency in a language is being given to Nancy Hamilton and Vicki Dearholt this summer as participants in the I.U. Honors Program. Chosen on merit alone, Nancy will be spending nine weeks in Briex, France, while Vicki will be located in St. Luis Potosé, Mexico. This is the first year that Pike is sending a Spanish student on the trip.

Festivities prevailed as the Latin students initiated their "servi" at the traditional Latin Club Banquet. Third and fourth year "gods and goddesses" were honored guests while the second year patricians ostracized their "helpful" first year slaves.

Social Studies Adds Faculty Team Teaching and

Making history live, Lucinda Burrows submits to judgement by her peers and sentencing to the stocks.

The social studies department was the scene of a new experiment this year. A team teaching approach, under the instruction of Robert Faris and Nancy Brandt, was introduced to enable the honors sections of International Relations to have an opportunity to benefit from two completely different methods of lecture and testing. In general, the team teaching is set up so that the class is divided into two groups and assigned to one of the instructors. The two groups meet together for instructors' lectures and testing as well as guest speakers and are divided for individual reports. In this manner the students benefit from the knowledge and experience of both teachers.

For the first time this year, also, one section of Senior Government was given honor status. Students in this class covered the regular semester course in twelve weeks, leaving the last five weeks of school for a unit on Latin America.

The new exploratory teaching program open to selected Pike seniors was introduced this year. The purpose of the course was to interest able students in entering the teaching profession and to give pre-vocational information and experience. The exploratory class met five days a week. Following four weeks of orientation, guided by Mrs. Teter, the students spent three days a week in a classroom situation observing and participating in activities. The practice teaching took place in three different levels—kindergarten through ninth grade.

MRS. NANCY BRANDT: U.S. History, Government, and Spanish; ROBERT FARIS: Economics, World History, Government; GEORGE GROSSKOPF: U.S. History, Dr. Education; CLIFFORD REESE: U.S. History, Government, Economics.

Merchandising Experience Added Through D.E.

New to the Pike Business Department this year are the Distributive Education classes. Students participating in this program attended one D.E. class period each day. During this hour, they were instructed by Mrs. Judith Ridell in methods of salesmanship, merchandising techniques, and other practices necessary for a good career in business. The last two hours of the school day were spent at the students' respective jobs.

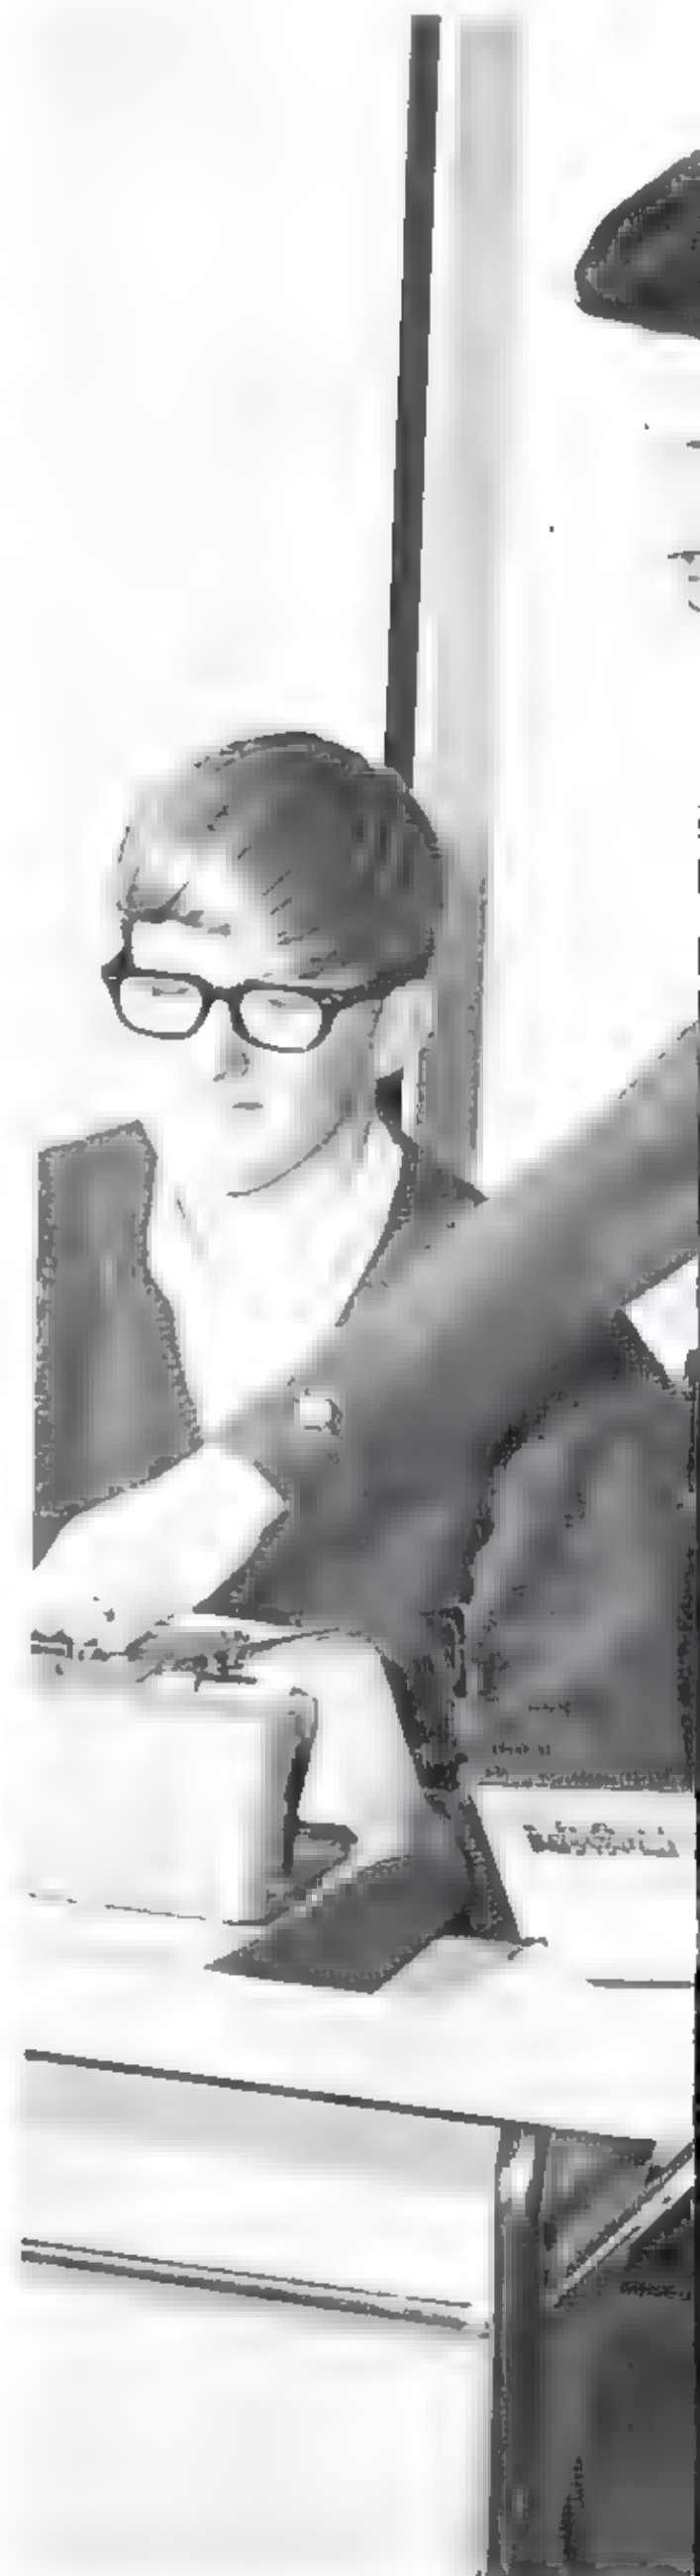

Office Practice offered students the opportunity to learn new procedures found in secretarial work and practice the shorthand, bookkeeping and typing learned in other business classes.

Legal forms, insurance policies, and other materials encountered in a business career were introduced to the typing classes.

Business Law, under the instruction of Mr. J. Drescher, introduced students to legal procedures and gave them a general knowledge of laws concerning the business world.

In preparation for clerical employment, senior Barbara Dean gains valuable experience in Office Practice.

Producing the school paper, The Pike Hi-life was only one of the functions of the Graphic Arts course. Shown are Jim Ross, Mr. Little, and Hershel McLeMore.

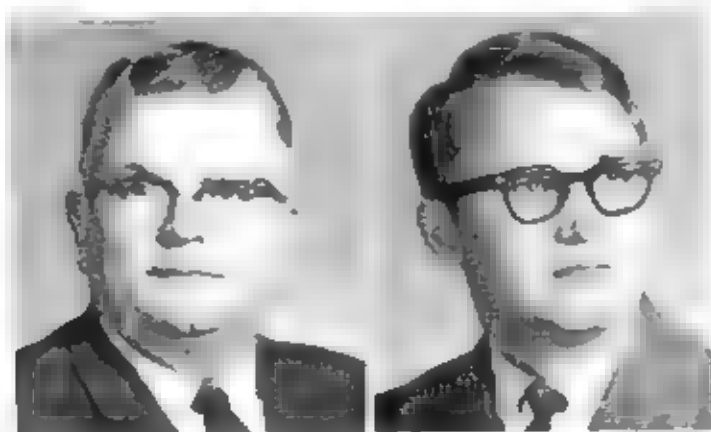

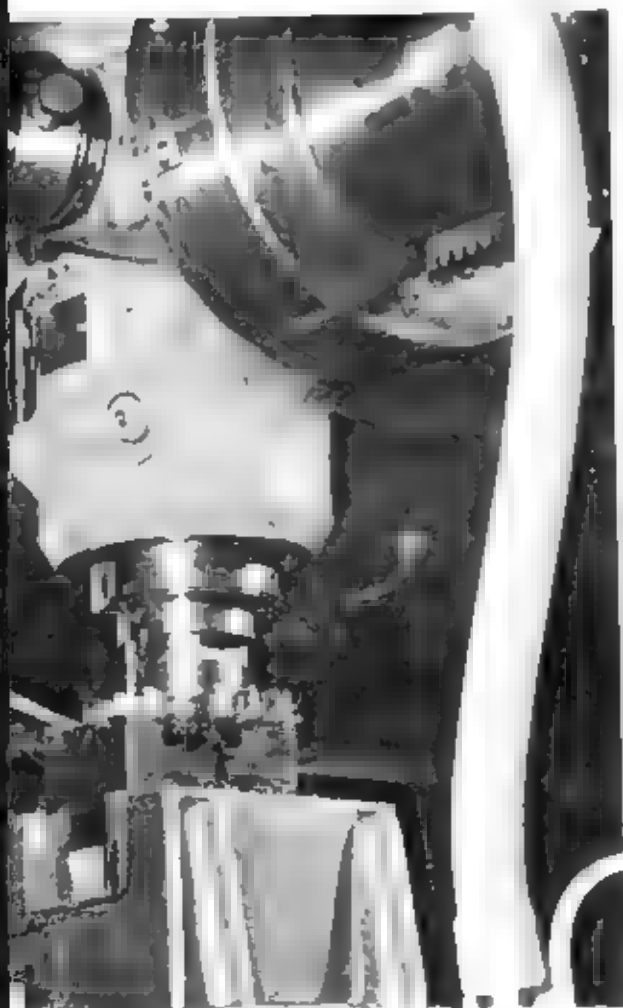

The Industrial Arts Department, headed by Charles Brown, tinkered, soldered, and printed its way to new heights this year. The department added many new machines this year, resembling those used by industry, to familiarize students with industrial products and practices.

Two engine stands, section charts, and an electronic engine tester have been added to Mr. Little's Power Mechanics Shop. Mr. Little also instructed the graphic arts classes. The dual duty of these classes is to print the Hi-Life and to print tickets, programs, and track ribbons.

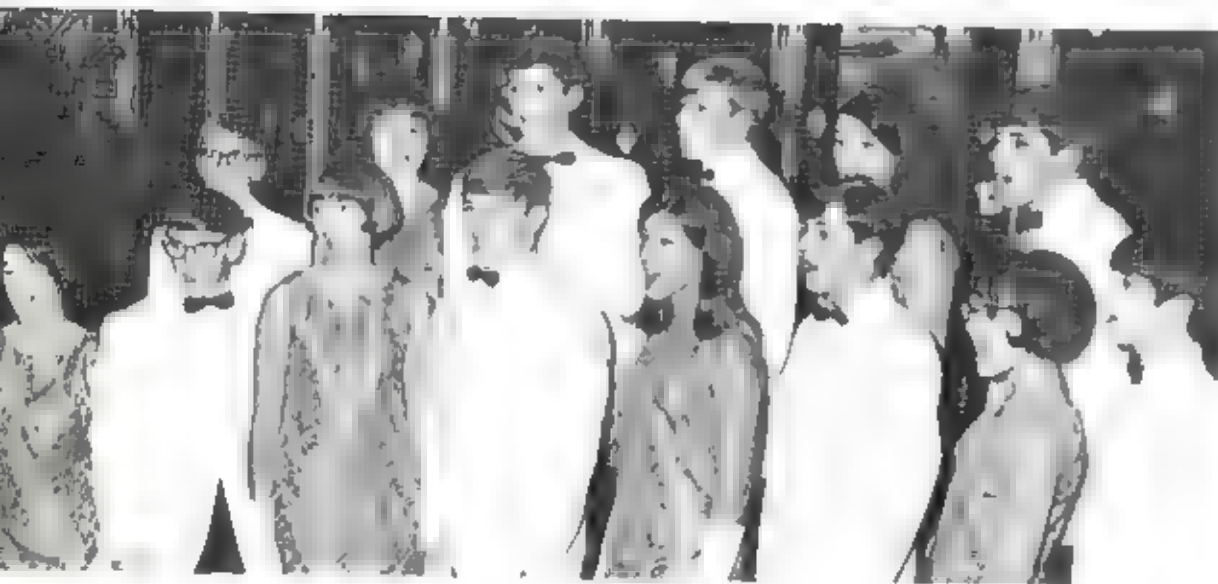

The electricity and electronics students are now using a tube tester, CAT tester and a capacitor checker to aid them in the repair of staff member's televisions and radios.

Other areas of the department include wood-working and metals class to train students in these respecting vocational areas.

The Pike High School Band, directed by Robert Meyer, marched to a Farmer's Day Victory for the sixth consecutive year and rated 14th on Band Day during State Fair competition. The band's accomplishments did not stop however with the end of the summer; they appeared before the student body to begin another year. The band's activities included appearances at football and basketball games, concerts, parades, contests, as well as the annual Band Spectacular.

The band introduced a new system this year; the freshmen and sophomore musicians were combined to make the Varsity Band, while the upper-classmen formed the Concert Band. The band proudly returned from the Solo and Ensemble Contest with sixty-seven medals and three groups trying for State honors.

Not all the firsts were taking place in the instrumental music department.

The choral department, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Bowman, also made some improvements. The objectives of those changes were to enlarge the students musical world, encourage higher standards in the choral department, develop greater individual competence and participation, and also to provide a broader basis for evaluation of the individual music student.

P.E., D.Ed. and Health Expand Capabilities

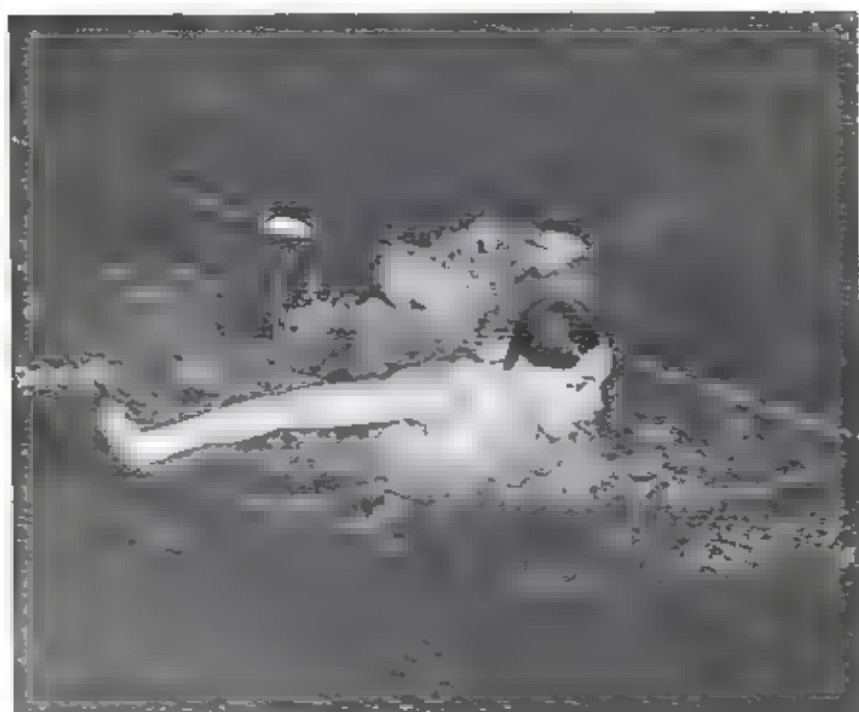

The physical education department continued a program of varied activities and sports. Pupils learned the basics of numerous team games—volleyball, basketball, baseball, and badminton. Swimming proficiency is stressed through a required six weeks session in the pool.

Drivers Education enables pupils to learn the various skills involved in becoming a proficient driver. The health classes practice first aid and bandaging as well as the symptoms of various illnesses.

Under the auspices of this department, several after-school activities are sponsored. The intramural and G.A.A. organizations are supervised by the teachers. Mrs. Owen also devotes much time to training and advising the cheerleaders as well as conducting and monitoring the spring yell leader tryouts and competition.

Home Economics and Art Strive To Expand Offerings

An experiment in teaching took place in the Home Economics department this year under the direction of Mrs. Anne Teter. This pilot study involved "Audio-Tutorial" methods to aid the teaching of textiles. All the information, references, and assignments were placed on tapes so that the pupils could operate their own recorders and work at their own rates. The students were very enthusiastic about this method because they could proceed as they were able to comprehend the material.

A Home Economics Survey course was offered again this year for senior girls not majoring in home economics. Some of the units studied by this class included budgeting, financing, and furnishing home situations. Mrs. Loudonback joined the department during the second semester and taught the survey course and Home Economics II.

The art department was instructed by a new-comer to Pike High School, Mr. Adams. Besides regular assignments, Mr. Adams also assisted any organization which needed art work. Class instruction was given in figure sculpture, portrait sketching, fashion drawing, and construction of simulated architectural models.

Under the direction of student body leader Ned Redenbarger the Student Council initiated the precedent of decorating the Mall. Shown here Ned put the final touches on the Christmas tree as Eugene Jackson and Greg Dunn "hold the ladder steady".

Student Council and AFS Strive To Promote Community Understanding

Ned Redenbarger in 1966 stated that one of his declared purposes as president of the Student Body would be to provide Pike with a symbol. As the yearbook needed a new theme—construction and building would scarcely do for a third year—Sue White, editor and former student council member, thought the purposes of both organizations might well be accomplished in one effort. Thus sketches were proposed which then were mimeographed, handed out to the entire student body, and voted upon. Finally a seal emerged. If this seal which appears throughout the 1967 yearbook gains popularity and is satisfactory to the school community, then it may become the official emblem of Pike High School.

Other activities of the Student Council included promotion of spirit and pride in Pike High School. The competition yells between classes were sponsored by the organization; it also initiated the Boys' Cheer Block. Areas of school life were scrutinized; a file of bands to be employed at the various dances was started. A dance code for suggested school behavior was drawn up. Also a senior rights committee was established. Council members also served as guides at various school activities.

American Field Service seeks to raise monies for the national organization and to promote international understanding. Much of the success of the International Dinner was due to the invitation extended foreign exchange students at various high schools by Pike AFS.

Medical Knowledge and Service Sought

A knowledge of the medical field was sought by the Future Nurses of America Club. Under the leadership of Mrs. Altha Sullivan and president, Sue White, the group made a field trip to the I.U. medical center and were entertained by several speakers.

A knowledge of medical aid in emergencies was the purpose of the Red Cross, sponsored by Mrs. Gundy.

The Tri-Hi-Y was a most active group this year. President Sue Palmer led the members through many service projects including caroling at the Indiana Baptist Home, the March of Dimes, and a sale of candy mints for a worthy cause.

Both the FNA and the Tri-Hi-Y participated in the decorating of the mall at Christmas.

Athletic-Oriented Clubs Foster Spirit

The Lettermen sponsored numerous events during the year. The Winter Sports Festival, Will Be—Has Been game, Lettermen's Queen Dance, and the Harlem Magicians' Game on April 8th were the major events of this spirited group under the direction of George Grosskopf. All of these events and the shake machine which the boys operate help to raise money for athletic awards. Officers were Ron Young, president; Mike Snyder, vice-president; and Dave Ratliff, secretary-treasurer.

Girls' Athletic Association under Mrs. Barbara Owen is open to any high school girl who earns fifty points per year to retain membership. The 135 members elected Jan Pritchard, president; Linda Cassell, vice-president; Susan Ely, secretary; and Patti Ansley, treasurer. Besides the after-school sports provided, activities of the club included the ski trip to Cadillac, a turnabout formal dance, and competitive gymnastics meets.

A cheerleader is to create school spirit and sportsmanship; she sets an example for the student body to follow. Yell leaders are also responsible for booster buses, pep rallies, and booster club and card block. These duties have been performed by Captain Peggy Yohler, Janet Browning, Teresa Gillespie, Susie Chappel, Sandi Wild, and alternates Mimi Yohler and Sharon Lemke.

Language clubs united in December to enjoy an International Dinner; members dressed in the respective costumes of their particular language's country. Entertainment was provided by the Hi-Tones who performed a Christmas program. The banquet was successful and plans are being made to include it in the calendar of the four clubs annually.

The German Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Anne Pihlak, consists of fifty-six members who are currently enrolled in German. 1966-67 officers are: Mark Pengilly, president; Jeff Wagley, vice-president; Greg Hadley, and Terry Bevins, co-program chairmen. Activities included trips to Garfield Theatre.

Debbie Hightshue, who just returned from a summer in France, served the French Club as its president. Other officers were Jim Cuning, vice-president; Jackie Ribley, treasurer; and Kathy Herther, secretary.

Spanish Club activities included a movie on Mexico. Van Bennett acted in the capacity of president. Jan Pritchard was vice-president, Terri Ribley—treasurer and Marsha Lerch—secretary.

Directed by Mrs. Hunt, the Latin Club elected John Patten, president; Ben Lagadon, vice-president; Sally Vogel, secretary; and Patti Flanigan, treasurer.

D.E. Gives Work Experience Goals

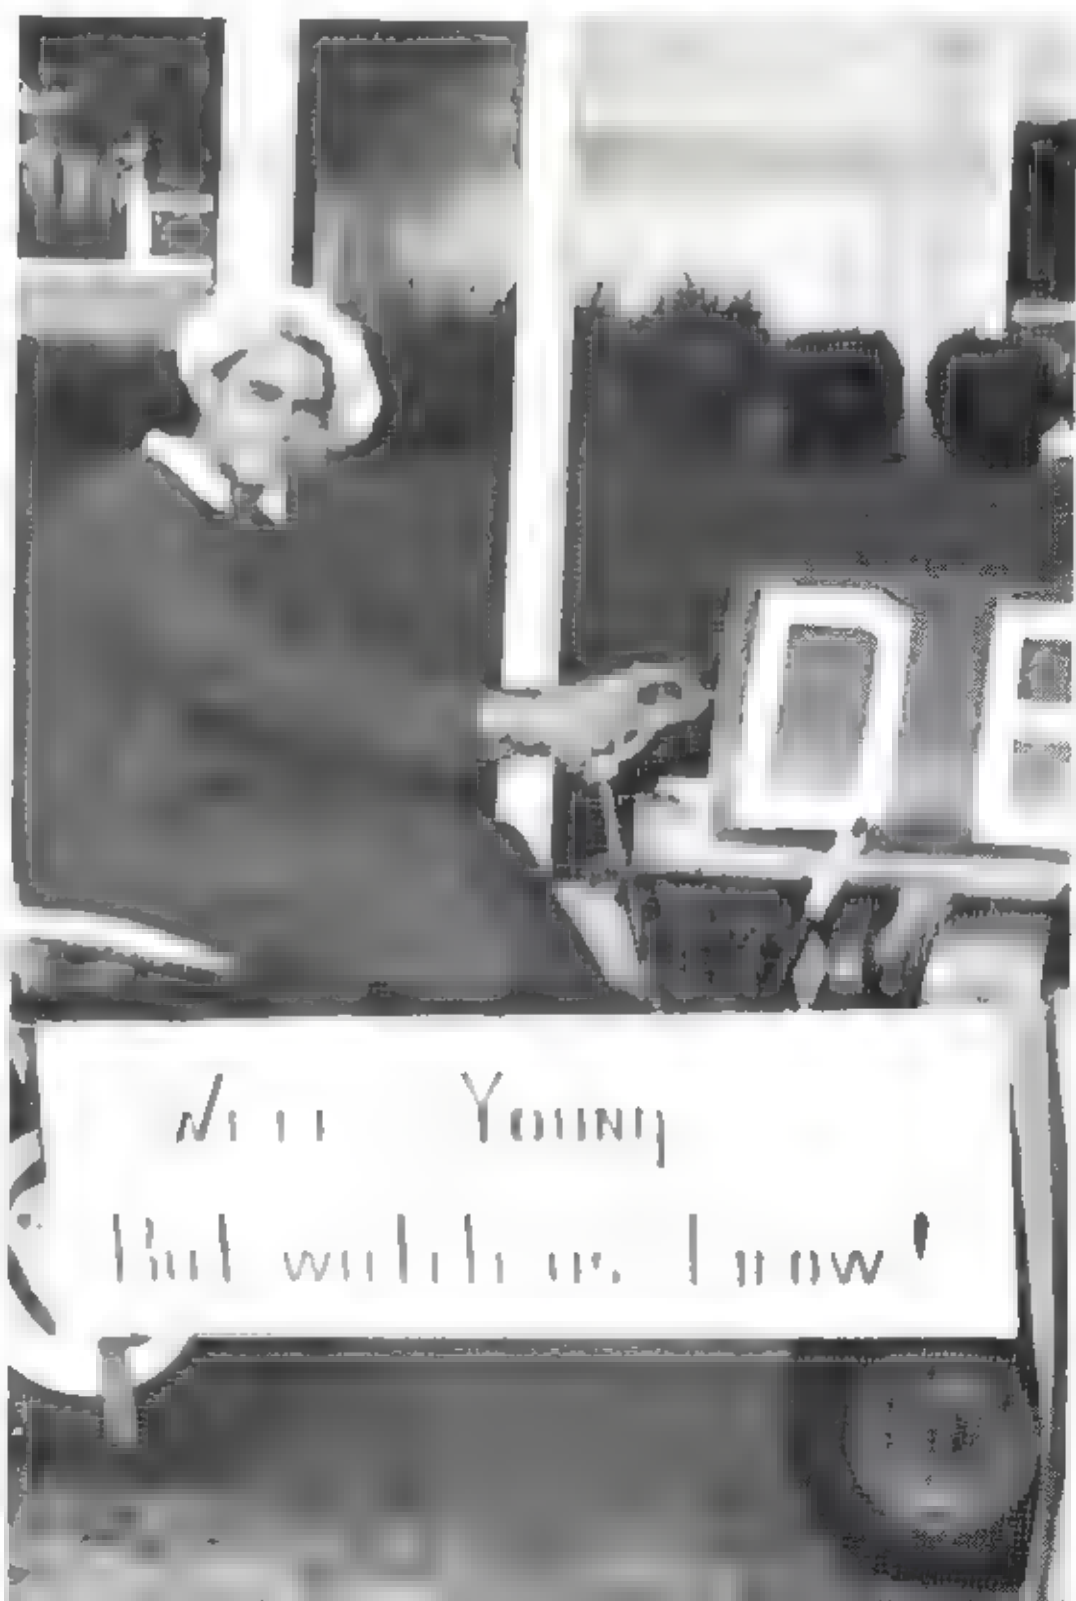

The newest club in Pike's roster has as its goal the development of future leaders for marketing and distribution. The fourteen pupils enrolled in Distributive Education are qualified for membership in the D.E. Club which is sponsored by Mrs. Judy Riddell

Members organized a float in the Homecoming parade, participated in state contests, and took a field trip to Paul Harris' Distributive Center. In appreciation of the opportunity to gain work experience, these pupils also held an employer-employee banquet.

Officers were: president, Mike Taylor; first vice-president, Dan Ellis; second vice-president, Bob Mabbitt; secretary, Becky Harris; assistant secretary, Jim Ross; treasurer, Tom Heim; assistant treasurer, Donna Evans; reporter, Mary Howell. In this fashion juniors were also given training as leaders in the organization and decision making.

Thespians Recreate Broadway Successes

Teahouse of the August Moon and 110° in the Shade, proven successes were equally well accepted by Pike audiences. Mr. Lee Horn, faculty advisor, combined the talents within the total school population rather than giving individual class plays thus providing the resources for more elaborate productions than had previously been possible.

Thespians were the backbone of these productions; each of the twenty-five Thespians has accumulated ten points through participation. 100 other pupils are currently working for their coveted Thespian points. As students strive toward this goal and gain insight into behind-the-scenes theatrical problems and techniques it is hoped they will also acquire a love and working knowledge of the total theatre.

Beth Soper, Marsha Lerch, Pam Mitchell, and Brent White were the officers of the Thespians, but the entire group membership worked to give the community several nights of polished, wholesome entertainment.

Pike Advanced to Final Sectional Game

Despite the graduation of Larry Habegger, last year's 6'7" player, Pike built a strong team for 1967. Bob Warren provided the nucleus of Coach Starkey's team supported by several able juniors. Reserve Coach Ron Iwema often found his team deserting the roster to be moved into the varsity line-up.

Pike's basketball team finished the 1967 season with an 18-8 record. Coach Starkey's boys also went into the evening game of the sectionals, beating Wells and Thorntown. Bob Warren was the season's high scorer and made the first team of both the Indianapolis Star and Indianapolis News. Other outstanding players were Jeff Wagley, Bill Blaser, and Allen Grundy. Bobby Warren finished the year with an average of 22 points a game; Jeff Wagley was second highest scorer with a 10.9 average. Bob also recorded a .417 percentage on field goal attempts. He tried 458, completing 191.

The sectional games showed the final spirit and polish of the team. In the early games, Pike won over Wells 75-51 and later the team defeated Thorntown 35-28.

Soph's Break Old Ring Tradition

The sophomore class began a new tradition at Pike this year. Their class rings, unlike the formerly square rings were dome-shaped, and probably to many the most unique which Pike students have ever chosen.

The sophomores proudly wore these rings and supported their class at nearly every athletic event. The spirited sophomore girls and guys were usually well represented at the Booster Club meetings and games. Their spirit got off to a victorious start when their float tied with the choir's for first place in the homecoming parade.

The sophomores were scholastically competitive with their upperclassmen and had several pupils on the honor roll each six weeks. The class was also active in extra-curricular activities while retaining its high grade average. Students participated in clubs as well as the plays and the musical. Several sophomores were even awarded leading roles in the productions: Ginger Soper, 110 in the Shade; Mark Pengilly, Teahouse of the August Moon; and Mark Norris, Master of Ceremonies of the annual Talent Show.

The freshman class of 1970 spent most of this year getting into the swing of things—being able to participate in extracurricular clubs and athletics. School courses finally offered a little room for individual choice. Beau Bunting proved to be invaluable to the swimming team as a diver; Bill Weston was another freshman who demonstrated that spirit is what counts in football. Vicki Barth demonstrated that even the girls of the freshman class were concerned with and interested in physical education. Vicki's specialty is in acrobatics and gymnastics. Sally Oliverio placed first in advanced tumbling in the State GAA meet. Freshmen also were taking part in the various musical shows—David Mahlke, and Carol Rizzo. Sally Oliverio represented the class as Homecoming attendant. Ken Dunaway had perfect attendance during summer band practices. Paula Siler pursued her interest in electronics through the Radio Club.

All in all, the freshmen have shown that through their years in Pike High School, the school and community may look forward to the emergence of interesting and unique individuals and an increased enthusiasm and spirit.

Freshmen Sally Vogel, Chris Stevens, and Ann Spangler study various plant types for their biology class.

The class of 1967 having graduated, the burdens of responsibility and pleasures of privilege fall to other willing hands and classes.

The junior class was quite active this year. One of their great achievements was beating the seniors out in the Student Council-sponsored competition Spirit Award for most active yelling during pep sessions. They participated in the homecoming activities by presenting a float which featured the theme "Cream 'Em" and having as homecoming attendant, Jackie Rbley. Pike Varsity cheerleaders were primarily composed of junior girls, Teresa Gillespy, Susie Chappel, Sandy Wild, and alternate Mimi Yohler. Looking forward to next year as seniors President Greg Hadley, Vice President John Patten, Secretary Sandy Wild, and Treasurer Jeff Wagley prepared for this year's prom which featured the music of the Phil Marshall orchestra; the prom was held in the Indianapolis Athletic Club. As in past years, juniors worked diligently in the concession area for football and basketball games to provide money for the prom.

With the help of Jeff Wagley, Jay Hahn, Allen Grundy, Steve Morris, Bill Blaser, Greg Hadley, and Mark Patty Pike's basketball team progressed to the final game of the Zionsville sectional.

Juniors also contributed to our swimming team's successful season—John Patten, Danny Barksdale, Mike Jones, Scott McDonald, Bruce Foist, and Gary Neal.

The foreign language awards finalists for I.U. Honors program included Mark Patty, German; Vicki Dearholt, Spanish; Kim Torgerson, French; and Nancy Hamilton, French.

Hi-Tones found juniors Vicki Dearholt, Vic Moore, Cyd Shank, Terry Calvert, Mike Jones, Jim Metzler, and Ann Pritchard swelling its ranks.

Thus the junior class worked hard to make the school year 1966-67 a successful one and also showed that capable leadership is readily available to continue in 1967-68.

The Yearbook Provided a School Symbol

YEARBOOK—FIRST ROW: S. White (editor), J. Baker, L. Katzenberger, E. Holmberg, J. Randa, J. Stevens, J. Asher, P. Mitchell
SECOND ROW: Mrs. Booth (sponsor), P. Alexander, D. Samuels,

R. Young, J. Browning, M. Guest, M. Walker, V. Hart
THIRD ROW: H. Rothkopf, P. Majors, C. Metzler, D. Snively, T. Ribey, L. Smith

We, the staff of the 1967 Pike's Peek, have finally completed the book. We faced deadlines, identified unknown persons, reidentified pictures which were damaged. After having gained a reputation for being notoriously late on production deadlines, we were able to turn in the entire book being only one day late. In spite of our sponsor getting married the week before a deadline, a deadline in the midst of spring vacation—the book took shape and kept on growing. It was completed before the staff was overcome by senioritis.

Seriously, the entire staff worked diligently at various unpleasant, but necessary, tasks such as pasting, indexing, and other items which go into yearbook production. We hope that this annual will be judged as covering the year's events and also being a unique and individual yearbook.

As editor of the Pike's Peek, 1967 edition, I should like to thank those contributors who have made the publication of this book possible. Also gratitude is expressed to Mrs. Booth, American Yearbook Co., Tower Studios and the staff. Just as it is necessary to work hard to preserve the spirit of a year in a book, so it is also hard to retain the symbol of ourselves developed each twenty-five years—each month—each day.
